Biographical / Historical

The Connecticut State Medical Society (CSMS) is one of the oldest extant medical associations in the United States. Founded in 1792 as the Connecticut Medical Society, the organization is a federation of eight component county medical associations (Fairfield, Hartford, Litchfield, Middlesex, New Haven, New London, Tolland, and Windham) which is in turn part of a federation of state medical societies that are constituent entities of the American Medical Association. The current stated mission of the CSMS is to be the voice of Connecticut physicians; to lead physicians in advocacy; to promote the profession of medicine; to improve the quality of care; and to safeguard the health of our patients.

The history of the Connecticut State Medical Society is closely entwined with the history of the practice of medicine and medical education in the state of Connecticut. Creation of the CSMS was initiated by members of the New Haven Medical Society, many of whom were associated with Yale College. After a multi-year campaign to create a state-wide medical society, the General Assembly of the State of Connecticut passed the Act of Incorporation of the Connecticut Medical Society in 1792. The stated purposes of the Society were the improving of medical practice, medical education, and friendly relations among physicians. The terms of the charter included the formation of eight county medical associations, whose membership would comprise membership of the state medical society, and who would elect representatives to attend state meetings. The first president of CSMS and one third of the charter members were graduates of Yale College.

In its first year, the CSMS set up processes for aspiring physicians to take medical exams, for the granting of licenses to practice medicine in the state of Connecticut, and for the discipline of members who violated CSMS rules of conduct and banned the prescription of secret proprietary and patent medicines.

In 1807 Timothy Dwight, President of Yale College, asked the CSMS to help establish a medical school at Yale. In 1810 the Connecticut Legislature approved the joint endeavor to form the Medical Institution at Yale College, the precursor to what is now known as the Yale School of Medicine. The CSMS helped select faculty and examined candidates for medical degrees and each of the County Medical Associations were allowed to name a student from their county to attend the school for free. This arrangement ended in 1885 when the articles of union between the Society and the College were set aside and Yale assumed full control of the school.

CSMS began advocating for public care for people suffering from mental illness in 1812, forming a committee "to collect information concerning the number of lunatics in the State, their whereabouts and their care." In 1821 CSMS launched a campaign to establish the Connecticut Retreat for the Insane (later known as the Hartford Retreat, now called the Institute of Living) the first institution for treatment of mental illness in Connecticut. A donation from CSMS helped fund the hospital, which opened in 1824.

CSMS also played a large role in the creation of the Connecticut Hospital for the Insane (now known as Connecticut Valley Hospital) which opened in Middletown in 1867.

The CSMS also played a central role in the founding of Yale-New Haven Hospital. In 1825 the Society voted to adopt the recommendation of an internal committee that a general hospital that would serve the interests of the Medical Institution of Yale College be created. The General Assembly of the State of Connecticut passed an act incorporating the General Hospital Society of Connecticut the following year with a charter stipulating the President and Fellows of the Connecticut Medical Society should be ex-officio members. CSMS helped pay for the hospital by designating five dollars from the fee charged to each recipient of an M.D. degree in the state of Connecticut to the project fund. In 1828 the Society appointed a committee to forward the establishment of a general hospital and in 1829 issued a circular recommending the institution to the people of Connecticut. The State Hospital (later known as New Haven Hospital, then Grace-New Haven Hospital, then Yale-New Haven Hospital) opened in 1833 on seven and a half acres of land bordered by Cedar Street and Howard, Davenport, and Congress avenues.

Content Description

The collection includes materials created and collected by staff and members of the Connecticut State Medical Society (CSMS), founded in 1792. Materials document the history and activities of the organization, policies regarding the practice of medicine in Connecticut, and efforts to effect legislative policy and regulations regarding the practice of medicine at the state and national levels of government.

Series I. Council, 1924-2007 includes materials generated by the functions of the CSMS Council, which creates legislative and regulatory policy for the organization. The Council chair serves on the CSMS Board of Directors. The series includes typescript Council minutes in bound volumes; binders of Council minutes with House of Delegates summaries; binders of auxiliary Council minutes including supporting documents such as correspondence, clippings, memoranda, and ephemera; and office files.

Series II. House of Delegates, 1905-2009, includes materials related to annual and semi-annual meetings of the CSMS House of Delegates. Members of the House of Delegates are elected by Connecticut county medical associations and meetings are open to all CSMS members. The series includes typescript proceedings in bound volumes and folders and Annual and Semi-annual Meeting handbooks, ephemera, and planning files.

Series III. Office files, 1918-2013, includes materials created by numerous CSMS officials and staff. Materials include reports and correspondence sent from Connecticut county medical societies to CSMS, 1918-1937; files created by Executive Director Creighton Barker, 1937-1951, including state medical examiner correspondence and materials related to governor commissions on the prevention and care of sickness, care of veterans, and treatment of people with disabilities; files regarding the Connecticut Medical Service, the precursor to Blue Cross of Connecticut, 1945-1994; general office files, 1960-2016; files created by Robert Brunell, Director of Scientific Affairs, including materials regarding medical quackery, 1962-2010; Tim Norbeck, Executive Director speeches, testimonies, and writings, 1983-2006; files created by Ken Ferrucci, Vice President of Public Policy and Government Affairs and Acting Executive Director, including materials regarding medical malpractice and liability, 1999-2004; and communications and media files, 2006-2013.

Series IV. Publications, 1959-2013 contains copies of publications created by CSMS including Action, Connecticut M. D., Legislative Bulletins and Alerts, CSMS Newsletter, Physician Health Matters, CSMS

Political Roundup; Resident Watch, and Sports Med. The series also includes minutes from the Connecticut Medicine Editorial Board.

Series V. Ledgers, 1866–1952 includes ten ledgers and account books created by CSMS to track income and expenses including membership dues, Connecticut Medical Board exam fees, building funds, and the CSMS Women's Auxiliary.

Series VI. Scrapbooks, 1946–1959 includes nine scrapbooks containing clippings from Connecticut newspapers and news services. Topics of clippings include CSMS, health care in Connecticut, Creighton Barker "Connecticut Pharmacist" columns, emergency call services, Connecticut medical schools and medical students, CSMS and Yale School of Medicine Clinical Congress events, "Your Health" columns, and the Connecticut Medical Service.

Series VII. Photographs, 1792–1971 includes a series of black and white prints of CSMS presidents from 1792–1980, photographs of CSMS events and buildings, photograph portraits of CSMS presidents and associates, and negatives of photographs used to produce the CSMS presidents print series.

Series VIII. Ephemera and miscellany, 1785–2003 includes ephemera from Clinical Congress events presented by CSMS and the Yale School of Medicine; early Connecticut newspapers with announcements regarding CSMS; pamphlets and brochures created by CSMS and other medical societies or groups; posters created for CSMS campaigns regarding medical insurance; and miscellaneous items including a painted portrait of physician Samuel Perry (1786–1821), a framed letter to William Osler, CSMS advertising campaign printing blocks, an embroidered AMA delegate badge, and a VHS tape recording with content regarding a medical malpractice rally.

Series IX. Microfilm, 1792–1991 includes 127 reels of microfilm containing copies of CSMS proceeding, 1792–1991; journals, 1936–1990; Council minutes, 1924–1986; and auxiliary minutes, 1954–1989.

Arrangement

The collection is organized in 9 series: Series I. Council, 1924–2007. Series II: House of Delegates, 1905–2009. Series III: Office files, 1918–2013. Series IV: Publications, 1959–2013.
