Biographical / Historical

William L. Holladay was born June 23, 1926 in Dallas, Texas. He studied Greek and mathematics at the University of California at Berkeley before being drafted into the army in 1946 following World War II. In the army, he served as a chaplain's assistant until his discharge in 1947. Holladay returned to UC Berkeley and graduated summa cum laude in 1948.

Holladay then attended the Pacific School of Religion, studying with John Herbert Otwell and Georgia Harkness, and earning a bachelor of divinity degree in 1951. Holladay entered the Congregational ministry and was ordained in 1952, becoming the pastor of Murphys and Angels Camp until 1955.

Holladay attended the University of Leiden in the Netherlands where he studied under P. A. H. (Pieter Arie Hendrik) de Boer. His dissertation was titled "The Root subh in the Old Testament." After earning his doctorate in theology in 1958, Holladay and his family returned to the United States and spent two years in Colorado where Holladay served as the campus minister for the United Church of Christ (UCC) at the University of Colorado at Boulder. From 1960 to 1963, Holladay served on the faculty at Elmhurst College, teaching biblical studies and world religions, before accepting a position at the Near East School of Theology located in Beirut, Lebanon. Holladay was also commissioned as a missionary under the United Church Board for World Ministries. Occasionally, Holladay taught at the American University of Beirut. He was also involved in archaeology, working on a dig at Shechem with G. Ernest Wright in the summer of 1964 and leading archaeological tours for students to Jerusalem and Jordan in 1966 and 1967.

In 1970, Holladay and his family returned to the United States after he accepted a professorship as the Samuel Edgar Lowry Professor of Old Testament at the Andover Newton Theological School in Newton, Massachusetts. Holladay retired in 1997, but continued to publish, teach, and give public lectures. He died on May 6, 2016.

Scope and Contents

The papers include Holladay's study of ancient languages, including Hebrew, Aramaic, and Greek, as well as his interest in archaeology. Of particular note are the collected materials that provide a snapshot of the concerns of the American academic community living in the Middle East during the 1960s and the tensions between Israel and Palestine.

Series II: Professional and teaching files, 1873-2012

The series contains materials related to Holladay's professional career as a professor and scholar. It also documents his work as a Congregational minister and missionary. The Teaching files sub-series chronicles his tenure as an Old Testament professor at the Near East School of Theology (Beirut, Lebanon) and the Andover Newton Theological School. Lecture notes and outlines, exams and quizzes, as well as grades comprise the types of materials in Holladay's Teaching files. Materials for workshops, seminars, and courses taught after his retirement are also represented in the sub-series.

Holladay's Topical files include materials on biblical studies and archaeology of the ancient Near East. The series also contains Holladay's collected materials on the Israeli-Palestinian conflict from his time in Lebanon, including newsletters, newspaper clippings, magazines and other international publications. Reprints and writings of scholars and activist groups, with a focus on refugees in Palestine, document the concerns, discussions, and experiences of the international community in the Middle East in the 1960s and 1970s.

Also included in the series are committee minutes, conference programs, and correspondence documenting Holladay's involvement in professional organizations, such as the Catholic Biblical Association of America and the Society of Biblical Literature, as well the editorial board of Vetus Testamentum.

Holladay's work as a Congregational minister, pastor, and missionary are documented in Ministerial files, which comprise sermons given and rites performed.

Materials are arranged into four sub-series: Teaching files, Topical files, Professional organizations, and Ministerial files.

Series IV: Personal papers, 1945-2002

The series contains Holladay's personal and biographical materials, including photographs, a journal documenting his service during World War II, and his ordination and subsequent relinquishment of duties as a Congregational minister. Holladay's 1997 retirement celebration from the Andover Newton Theological School is documented by photographs and copies of speeches delivered. These files provide a broad overview of Holladay's life and career. His student work, particularly from the Pacific School of Religion, is especially well documented in the series.

Materials are organized into two sub-series: General, and Student work. General materials are arranged chronologically while materials in Student work are arranged alphabetically by title or topic.
