Biographical / Historical

Thomas Siveter was born in England in 1800. Between the ages of fifteen and twenty-one he was "bound out" to surgeon John Abernathy in London, England, who was a successor of John Hunter. In 1824 Siveter married Lydie Bridgewater of Edinburgh, Scotland and in 1826 they moved to the United States, settling in Cayuga County, New York and Ohio before taking up residence in Salem, Iowa in 1845. Siveter had joined the Quaker Society of Friends in 1844.

Dr. Siveter became a prominent physician in Salem and in 1850 was a charter member of the Iowa Medical and Chirurgical Society. He served as president of the society in 1856, when the name changed to The Iowa State Medical Society, and again in 1858. Siveter continued practicing medicine in Salem until his death in 1893.
