Biographical / Historical

The twelve residential colleges that make up Yale College have, in the past, each had their own printing facilities. The printing offices were started over a period of 30 years between 1937 and 1967, with Branford, Timothy Dwight, and Jonathan Edwards Colleges supporting the first wave of activity. The presses flourished in the hands of the students who used the facilities to produce advertising ephemera for campus activities and as a means to self-publish. Books were often created for specific Yale courses that taught the technique of letterpress printing. In the days before desktop publishing and the personal computer, letterpress printing was the method of choice for accessible and esthetically pleasing printed materials. As computer production became easier and better through out the 1980s, student interest in the presses waned. In the late 1990s a resurgence of interest in letterpress printing as a historic art form developed and the college presses became active again. The Lohmann Prizes were established in 1967 to honor Carl C. Lohmann 1910, founding member of the Whiffenpoofs and of the Honorable Company of College Printers and Secretary of Yale University from 1927 to 1953. The Lohmann prizes are awarded annually in May to distinguish excellence in undergraduate printing.
