Biographical / Historical

The core of these papers came from William R. Johnson (1878-1967), a Methodist missionary who lived in China from 1906 to 1942*. Caught in the Far East at the outbreak of World War II, he was repatriated to the United States in 1942 on the exchange ship, the Gripsholm. Following his arrival, he travelled and lectured extensively in the United States on the menace of Communist China and maintained an active interest in Chinese affairs to the end of his life. The collection reflects this interest in its rich array of brochures, leaflets, circular letters and publications of the many committees and individuals who were active in opposing recognition of Communist China. Of special note is the large collection of circular letters from Alfred Kohlberg, known as "Mr. China Lobby," who also headed the American China Policy Committee.

Johnson also subscribed to many conservative journals and news-letters, and received literature from a variety of individuals and tiny organizations devoted to special causes. The collection, as a consequence, contains many rare pieces of ephemeral conservative literature as well as newsletters from some of the better known figures, e.g. Gerald L.K. Smith, Elizabeth Dilling and Clarence Manion. As the reader will find, many of these items are emphatically underlined and sometimes accompanied by Johnson's marginal notes. While there are a few pieces added from other sources, the core of the collection reflects the issues of the 1950s and 1960s, providing a fascinating guide to the preoccupations, the style of thinking and the language of the right wing groups of that period.

Scope and Contents

The material is arranged alphabetically by subject, and groups concerned with a particular issue are placed together under the issue, rather than being listed separately by name. Under GUN CONTROL, for example, the reader will find literature of half a dozen different organizations. Three subjects which have a particularly large number of entries - ANTI-COMMUNISM; CHINA; and CHRISTIAN GROUPS - are further divided by prominent individuals and organizations.

The subject headings should be understood as indicating the predominant concern of these groups rather than as strictly defining their interests. Wherever they may start, most of these groups are united by a cluster of principles ranging over a variety of fields. Even so single-minded an organization as the Prohibition Party, for example, insists that although "many have the mistaken impression that the program of the Prohibition Party is very limited in scope, being almost entirely devoted to the prohibition of alcoholic beverages...its platform has been considerably expanded to include seventeen different planks." [Dr. Lowell H. Coate, National Chairman, "The Prohibition Challenge."]

The range of their interests can be very roughly gauged from the subject headings: e.g. gun control, fluoridation, mental health, race relations, immigration, foreign relations. One of the chief issues discussed under the heading FOREIGN RELATIONS is the United Nations, which these groups see as a danger to the sovereignty of the United States. Only two women's groups are represented - the Minute Women, and an antisemitic group which issued the publication Women's Voice.

Publications of ad hoc groups formed around a particular issue or person, are filed under that subject - e.g. Bricker Amendment, Pillion Amendment, General Edwin A. Walker. Periodicals issued by organizations are filed under the name of the organization, e.g. American Legion, Firing Line. In no case are the runs of periodicals comprehensive, but where there are a large number, the inclusive dates are given.

Collection Contents

Series I: PRINTED MATTER FROM THE JOHNSON COLLECTION, 1917-1966

5' 10" (14 boxes)

The printed matter from the Johnson Papers was acquired by Manuscripts and Archives, Yale University Library from the Divinity Library in 1976. It was then arranged with related items from other sources into fourteen boxes which form Series I of this collection. Right Wing pamphlets and periodicals of a similar character acquired after that date are added to the register in Series II which is arranged by subject.

b. 1, f. 5	American National Party. KILL! Magazine: Dedicated to the Annihilation of the Enemies of the White People , Vol. 1, no. 1-2 This short-lived group led by John Patler, erstwhile comrade and later assassin of neo-Nazi leader George Lincoln Rockwell, published only four issues before Patler reunited with Rockwell's group. Illustrated with black and white photos, the inaugural issue includes a piece by Burros, "The importance of killing," while much of the second issue is devoted to Patler's arrest for his role in breaking up a "race-mixing rally" in Englewood, New Jersey. Other articles include "White woman stabbed, beaten, robbed while praying in church: How much more 'brotherhood' will the Whiteman take?" and "Black criminal slashes White mother's throat in rape attempt."	1962 July-September
b. 1, f. 6	American National Party, New York Division, "Notice! Street Meeting! To Protest the Red 'Peace Meeting' at St. Nicholas Palace" Handbill announcing one of the pieces of far-right street theater put on by the short-lived group led by John Patler, speaking on "We Want War with Communism ... Not Peace!" R. G. Grandinetti, New York State Chairman, American National Party also appeared.	1962
b. 1, f. 7	American Taxpayers' Union, Oakland, California, The Taxpayer: Official Publication Five page document discusses tax issues at the local level. It includes a list of businesses that support the ATU.	1967 January

b. 1, f. 8	Bader, Salem. "Let's Go to War Again! A G.I. Indicts Mr. and Mrs. America" 16 page anti-Semitic tract lamenting America's recently concluded role in World War II; argues that regardless of whether the enemy is called Fascism or Communism, it's all a charade to make Americans fight for the "sinister hand lurking in the shadows, pulling the strings to which our marionette politicians dance." Bader had worked with Lawrence of Arabia in the British Intelligence Service, settling in the US in 1925 and becoming a citizen in 1942. His anti-Zionist activism culminated in establishing the United States Arab-Asian Institute in 1953.	Circa 1946
b. 1, f. 9	Britton, Frank L., "Emergency Message: "Civil Rights" Bill May Pass!" Broadside containing plea for funds to defeat the pending Civil Rights bill, backed by the NAACP and the "Jewish owned" New York Times, with the funds being sent to Britton.	1950s
b. 1, f. 10	Brownlee, George, ed., "The Sandtown Story, Bulletin 85" Privately printed newsletter of sardonic anti-Semitic, anti-Black, anti-Catholic, anti-Communist political commentary and humor. This issue includes letters from subscribers who are cancelling because, on top of the aforementioned tendencies, the publisher ran an anti-Masonic piece.	1966 May
b. 1, f. 11	Bubb, Frank, "What Causes War? Those Who Oppose War Must Discover Its Premises" Brochure that argues that the only moral reason for opposing war is its violation of individual rights. It includes text of the Society for Individual Liberty Declaration of Principle adopted October 1969.	1970s
b. 1, f. 12	Bunch, Paul, "The Masterminds of Stonehenge" Document argues that the builders of Stonehenge were members of a noble White Race rather than savages. It was published by a Christian Identity outfit.	1972
b. 1, f. 13	Caughey, A.W., "The Pulse of Capitalism" Sixteen issues (1996: nos. 1, 2, 4; 1997: 1-4; 1998: 1-4; 1999: 1-4; 2000: no. 1) of a quarterly newsletter containing occasionally contrarian economic analysis.	1996-2000

b. 1, f. 17	Christie, Roy S. and Hal Stearley, "This is a free ticket. It's not good for anything, it's just free. Compliments of The Great Society." Parody ticket with poem by Christie on verso that mocks the Great Society as a plan led by a Pied Piper that will lead sheeplike Americans to slavery.	1960s

b. 1, f. 18	Coffman, Michael S., "Property Rights the Foundation of Freedom: The Feudal Nature of Federal Regulations" Six-panel brochure that argues that federal regulations have actually undercut environmental protection as well as personal liberties.	1996
b. 3, f. 1	Committee for Defense of Property Rights and Students for Columbia University, Handbills and broadsides issued in the wake of the SDS seizure of buildings There are four mimeographed handbills and two larger broadsides reprinting full-page ads taken out in the Columbia student paper by the Committee. One handbill titled "S.D.S.: TODAY'S VERSION OF NAZI THUGS" states that "The announced long-range purpose of the rebels is a collectivist society indistinguishable in principle from the Fascist regimes of the 20th century... The members of the Committee for Defense of Property Rights therefore call for strict enforcement of the law at Columbia by prosecuting the rebel leaders for the crimes they have committed: vandalism, criminal trespass, corecion, extortion, and unlawful imprisonment."	1968
b. 1, f. 19	"Communism Today: What Every American Should Know about It"	1966
b. 3, f. 2	Concerned Citizens Against Sexual Orientation Ordinances, "Fact: Enough Is Enough. No on A and B. Keep It Private" Campaign brochure that opposes two measures that would have banned anti-gay discrimination in San Jose, arguing that they are part of a concerted effort to bring San Francisco values to the south bay. It includes a facsimile reproduction of a flyer distributed at high schools allegedly recruiting boys into the gay lifestyle (actually a support group for gay teens), and lists of "facts" to prove there is no discrimination against gays in the law, thus no need for the two ballot measures.	1980
b. 1, f. 20	Conservatives for Marchi, Cards for "charter members" of the "Retire John Lindsay Club" This consists of six unused wallet-sized cards on blue stock still attached together with blank space for owner's name.	1969
