Vladimir L'vovich Korvin-Piotrovskii, 1892-1966

Vladimir L'vovich Korvin-Piotrovskii was born May 15, 1892 in Kiev. His place of birth is sometimes identified as the Ukrainian town of Bila Tserkva, where Korvin-Piotrovskii spent much of his childhood. During World War I, Korvin-Piotrovskii served in the White Army as an artillery officer. After being taken prisoner and barely escaping execution, he crossed through Poland and made his way to Berlin around 1920.

In Berlin, Korvin-Piotrovskii became active in the Russian emigre literary community. There he met Iurii Ofrosimov and Vladimir Sirin (Nabokov). He also became involved with the Berlin Poets' Club, a group of Russian emigre poets founded by Mikhail Gorlin. In addition to Ofrosimov, Korvin-Piotrovskii and Sirin, members included Raisa Blokh, Nina Korvin-Piotrovskaia (née Kaplun), Vera Nabokov, and Sofiia Pregel'.

Vladimir and Nina Korvin-Piotrovskii left Germany before World War II began. Nina Korvin-Piotrovskaia worked at the French Embassy in Berlin and they were able to travel to Paris with embassy staff. During World War II, Korvin-Piotrovskii was active in the French Resistance movement. He was arrested and imprisoned for approximately eight months in 1944. His fellow prisoners included the French writer André Frossard, whose memoir La maison des otages documents this time period.

Vladimir and Nina Korvin-Piotrovskii were close friends with Italo and Leila Griselli and visited them many times in Italy. Italo Griselli, a sculptor, made busts of both Vladimir and Nina Korvin-Piotrovskii.

In 1961 the family moved to Los Angeles, California, where Vladimir Korvin-Piotrovskii died on April 2, 1966 and Nina Korvin-Piotrovskaia died in 1975. They had one son, Andre De Korvin, born in 1935.

Scope and Contents

The Papers document the literary work of twentieth-century Russian poet and writer Vladimir L'vovich Korvin-Piotrovskii as well as the emigre circles in which he worked in Berlin and Paris. Correspondence (Series I) dates predominantly from the 1950s and 1960s and relates to publications and literary criticism. There are also several letters to Nina Korvin-Piotrovskaiia about her husband's writings and publications. Writings (Series II) include holograph drafts of many of Korvin-Piotrovskii's works as well as corrected and annotated printed versions. There is also one audio recording of Korvin-Piotrovskii reading his poetry. Of particular interest is a scrapbook from the Berlin Poets' Club that documents membership, poetry readings, correspondence, minutes and meeting notes. Papers relating to Korvin-Piotrovskii's service in the French Resistance and imprisonment at Fort Montluc can be found in Personal Papers (Series III).

The Papers also contain material from IUrii Ofrosimov and Italo Griselli, both friends of Korvin-Piotrovskii. The IUrii Ofrosimov Papers (Series IV) document the collaboration of Ofrosimov and Korvin-Piotrovskii on children's stories, using the pseudonyms Chika Bura and Chika Dzhura. The Italo Griselli Correspondence (Series V) documents the communications of early twentieth-century Italian artists and architects, particularly those involved in the Futurism movement.

Arrangement

The Papers are organized into five series: I. Correspondence, 1920-1973. II. Writings, 1928-1966. III. Personal Papers, 1944-1958. IV. IUrii Ofrosimov Papers, 1939-1962. V. Italo Griselli Correspondence, 1899-1953.

Collection Contents

Series I: Correspondence, 1920-1973

0.83 linear feet (2 boxes)

Series I contains correspondence between Vladimir Korvin-Piotrovskii and his literary colleagues, most of which is incoming and dates from 1945 to 1965. The Series also includes correspondence of Nina Korvin-Piotrovskaia, primarily related to her husband's literary affairs in the years after his death. These include letters related to the publication of Pozdnii Gost'. In addition, there are three third party letters, two of which were laid in to Italo Griselli's scrapbook of correspondence.

Correspondence related to the publication of Pozdnii Gost' is filed at the end of the Nina Korvin-Piotrovskaia subseries. Correspondence of Korvin-Piotrovskii can also be found in his scrapbooks (see Notebook 22 and Notebook 23 in Series II). Correspondence of the Berlin Poets' Club is in a scrapbook (see Notebook 31 in Series II). Correspondence related to Korvin-Piotrovskii's imprisonment at Fort Montluc is in Series III.

Series I is organized into three subseries: Vladimir Korvin-Piotrovskii, Nina Korvin-Piotrovskaia and Third Party. Correspondence within each subseries is arranged alphabetically. Correspondence is also filed elsewhere in the collection, as detailed in the series description.

Series II: Writings, 1928-1966

2.09 linear feet (6 boxes)

The series contains drafts and printed versions of many of Korvin-Piotrovskii's works, including the long dramatic poem Beatriche, material for the volume Pozdnii Gost', and critical essays. Scrapbooks include clippings and correspondence, most related to Korvin-Piotrovskii's publications. There is also one audio recording of Korvin-Piotrovskii reading his poetry.

Of particular interest is Notebook 31 \(scrapbook\). The scrapbook documents the Poets' Club of Berlin, a club for Russian emigre poets that met from 1928 to 1933. The book also contains photographs from later dates. Vladimir and Nina Korvin-Piotrovskii took the scrapbook with them when they fled Berlin prior to World War II. The Berlin Poets' Club was founded by Mikhail Gorlin and many of the notes, sketches and manuscripts in the scrapbook are authored by him.

Throughout the series, writings include drafts and notes in Nina Korvin-Piotrovskii's hand. These indicate that she transcribed or edited works both before and after Vladimir Korvin-Piotrovskii's death.

Arrangement of the notebooks and scrapbooks largely preserves the order in which the material was received by the Beinecke Library. They were numbered (likely by Nina Korvin-Piotrovskii) and these numbers are retained in the folder titles.

Poetry is grouped according to the three major geographic locations in which Korvin-Piotrovskii wrote: Berlin, Paris and California.

Children's stories that Korvin-Piotrovskii wrote with Iurii Ofrosimov are filed in Series IV.

Box 14: (audiovisual material): Restricted fragile. Reference copies may be requested. Consult Access Services for further information.

The Series is organized into five subseries: Notebooks and Scrapbooks, Poetry, Short Stories, Articles, and Writings of Others.

Notebooks and Scrapbooks

Writings in notebooks and scrapbooks are holograph drafts unless otherwise noted

Notebooks are arranged by number. Discontinuous numbering is due to the fact that some material (such as correspondence) is now filed in the other subseries or series. Notebook #16 is not present in the collection.

The writings include children's stories that Ofrosimov wrote with Vladimir Korvin-Piotrovskii. Some of the stories are signed with the pseudonyms Chika Bura and Chika Dzhura. The critical articles relate chiefly to twentieth-century Russian poetry.

Series V: Italo Griselli Correspondence, 1899-1953*0.42 linear feet (1 box)*

The correspondence is largely unrelated to the rest of the Vladimir Korvin-Piotrovskii Collection and probably was given to Korvin-Piotrovskii because of his personal friendship with Griselli.

Italo Griselli's correspondence consists chiefly of postcards from other Italian artists and writers of the early twentieth century, including several Futurists. There are also a few postcards from Latvia signed by several people including Valdemars Dambergs and Julijs Sprogis. Some unrelated papers were formerly laid in to the scrapbook. These were likely not Griselli's but have been filed at the end of this Series, as has the scrapbook itself.

Two letters formerly laid in to the scrapbook have been interfiled in Series I, Third Party.

Series V is arranged alphabetically. The contents of this series were removed from a scrapbook in order to prevent damage to the letters and facilitate research use.
